Our cellar has been home to some special bottles over the years. Overleaf are some current favourites and - on the back page - you will find a selection of single bottles we have bought at auctions and from private cellars over the years.

Happy browsing!

WHITE

Joh Jos Prum, Graacher Himmelreich Riesling Spätlese, Mosel '15 £110

Although it may be on the sweeter end of the spectrum with luscious tropical & floral notes, Riesling's naturally searing acidity means this wine never feels cloying & can even be a truly special accompaniment to savoury courses.

Marc Colin, En Remilly, Saint Aubin Premier Cru '10 £120

Off the main drag of big names & bigger price tags, St Aubin offers that rarest of things, good value Burgundy! Wines from this village also tend to have pretty flashy acidity that holds this wine together nicely at eleven years of age.

Pic & Chapoutier, Payrolles, Saint Peray '12 £150

A collaboration between one of France's greatest living chefs & the Rhone's preeminent house. Containing 100% Marsanne, this wine has a mixture of honey pear & citrus fruits.

Domaine Comtes Lafon, Meursault '15 £450

When it comes to Chardonnay, all roads eventually lead back to Meursault. A world-class producer in an excellent vintage. Full marks all around!

RED

Pax Mahle, Syrah, North Coast '18 £100

Pax & Pam Mahle have a well-earned reputation in the American wine scene for their hand's off approach to winemaking & the resulting wines that taste far less of process & far more of place. This Syrah has all the peppery spice notes of its Rhone cousins with bright fresh black berry fruits, florals & bramble.

Pahi, Escarpment Pinot Noir, Martinborough '14 £110

A stately rendition of this grape with dark, earthy sap & power to truly rival it's French cousins. This cuvee in particular has added lift from the addition of whole bunches into the ferment.

Cirillo, 1850 Ancestor Vine Grenache, Barossa Valley '13 £125

The world's oldest plantings of Grenache provide truly awesome depth with herbal notes of rosemary & red earth alongside bright, ripe red fruits. This is Australian wine at the height of its powers.

Le Grappin, Gravières, Santenay 1er Cru '18 £125

Emma & Andrew Nielsen run their micro-negoce from Fanny Sabre's old winery in Beaune. Sourcing grapes from oft-overlooked parcels, the Nielsen's approach is to accentuate fresher fruit character with whole-bunch fermentation whilst developing incredible velvet tannins..

Domaine Tempier, La Tourtine, Bandol '12 £210

Readers of Kermit Lynch's fine book 'Adventures on the wine route' will be familiar with this stalwart of the French south. We love the finesse they bring to the much-maligned Mouvedre grape promoting spice and vivid florals alongside savoury tannin and darker, earthier notes.

Bodegas y Vinedos Alión, Ribera Del Duero, Castilla y León '04 £220

An absolute powerhouse wine. Ripe strawberry & red cherries alongside black cherry & liquorice with oodles of spice & velvet-y soft tannins. Just starting to show some subtle signs of age with mushroom & earth notes.

Château Beychevelle, Saint-Julien '15 £295

Roughly an even blend of Cabernet Sauvignon & Merlot with splashes of Petit Verdot & Cabernet Franc rounding out the blend. A big, dark, brooding wine with chewy tannins & black rock minerality. There's some lavish new oak in use here but it complements rather than obscures the fruit.
